Schuman Declaration

ECSC flag

Treaty of Rome

EFTA

11 Cold War
On June 24, Soviet authorities in Berlin cut off all land, water, and rail routes to West Berlin. Within two days Britain, France and the US respond with a fifteen-month long airlift that successfully supplies the isolated West Berliners.

13 OEEC
To fulfil the Marshall Plan condition that European countries collaborate on the fair distribution of the aid supplied, the Europeans create the Organization for European Economic Cooperation (OEEC).

Marshall Plan countries

27 EFTA
As a reaction to the creation of the EEC in 1958, Austria, Denmark, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland, and the UK create the European Free Trade area (EFTA). Due to its size, a combined population of 90m vs. 170m of the EEC, EFTA lacks credibility from the start. Less than two years later, the UK applies for membership in the EEC.

18 Schuman Declaration
French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman announces plans for a supranational European Coal and Steel Community (ECSC). The community pools French and German coal and steel production to make future conflict unthinkable.

17 Steps
In the early fifties, Monnet defines the key formula to Europe's progress: small, practical steps toward a united Europe...

22 Common Defense overruled
The French National Assembly rejects the European Defense Community Treaty due to the prospect of putting French troops under German command.

26 Turkey I
The EEC accepts Turkey's application for associate membership. Within a decade Turkish workers will have become a key factor in keeping Europe's factories going.

"Europe will not be made all at once or according to a single plan. The pooling of coal and steel production should immediately provide for the setting up of common foundations for economic developments as a first step in the federation of Europe." Schuman, 1950

"The program should be a joint one, agreed to by a number, if not all, European nations." George Marshall, 1947

"... If Europe were... united in the sharing of its common inheritance, there would be no limit to the happiness, to the prosperity and glory which its three or four hundred million people would enjoy. We must build a kind of United States of Europe." Churchill, 1946

"We can never sufficiently emphasize that the six Community countries are the forerunners of a broader, united Europe, whose bounds are set only by those who have not yet joined. Our Community is not a coal and steel producers association: it is the beginning of Europe." Jean Monnet

"It's almost peculiar when you consider that in previous decades iron and steel caused division among the nations of Europe, and now Europe's iron, steel, and coal will lead towards community." Konrad Adenauer, 1951

21 ECSC into action
The first coal transfer from Germany to France

16 Coal and Steel
The creation of a single body to rule over European coal and steel, once the two resources that fueled wars, is intended to make future wars virtually impossible. Material resources prove to be more concrete, less political subjects of discussion than war and peace.

"The setting up of a European Army cannot result from a mere grouping together of national military units." René Pleven, former French President, and President of the ESCG Council, 1964

28 Berlin Wall I
A desperate measure by the Communist regime to counteract the increasing inequality between East (poor) and West (rich) will divide the city of Berlin for more than 28 years.

14 Monnet III
After the failure of the League of Nations, Monnet is convinced that, to create European Unity, the agenda should be determined by practical rather than political subjects. He also insists on the importance of a higher authority in order to avoid the paralysis that characterized the League of Nations.

15 Engrenage
Monnet introduces the principle of engrenage, meshing, which involves civil servants from individual member states in the work of European institutions. According to this model, collaboration on one topic will inevitably lead to collaboration on another, making the integration of Europe irreversible.

20 1952-1955 Monnet IV
Jean Monnet serves as the first chairman of the High Authority of the ECSC.

10 Marshall Plan
In a speech at Harvard, US Secretary of State George C. Marshall announces a multi-billion-dollar plan for European economic recovery. As a condition for receiving Marshall Plan aid, European governments are required to collaborate on a framework to implement the program.

25 A German Commission President
Walter Hallstein, a former West German Foreign Minister, is elected the first President of the European Commission of the EEC. Hallstein remains President until 1967 and presides over a period of unprecedented economic success in Europe.

12 NATO
Ten European states - the UK, France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Italy, Portugal, Norway, Denmark, and Iceland - sign a pact of mutual defense with the United States and Canada.

19 Treaty of Paris
"The Six" - Belgium, Netherlands, Luxembourg, West Germany, France, and Italy - establish the European Coal and Steel Community (ECSC), transferring broad control over their industries to a supranational authority. The ECSC is the embryo that eventually becomes the EU.

23 Messina Conference
Foreign Ministers of "The Six" meet in a small Sicilian town for an intergovernmental conference to prepare what will become the Treaty of Rome.

24 The Treaty of Rome
The principle of engrenage at work: two additional communities are formed: the European Atomic Energy Community (EAEC) and European Economic Community (EEC). It also introduces the idea of a Common Agricultural Policy (CAP) to eliminate hunger from the European continent. Only defense remains too controversial for a common European approach.
